generally adapted to the produce of small grain—and, if too considerable for one purchaser, will be laid off in lots suitable for small farms. A description of the land is thought unnecessary, as those wishing to purchase will, no doubt, first view it. The payments required will be one-third cash, and the balance in two annual instalments, to be secured by a mortgage on the land, and no deed will be made until the last payment is complied with. Any person wishing to purchase, may know the terms by applying to Mr.
Thomas F. Page, living near the premises; who is fully authorized by me, to sell the whole or any part.

Latest Foreign Intelligence.

LONDON, July 29.

Accounts have been received by the Lisbon mail of the American ship Hudson, having been captured on her passage from New York, for Naples, by a Spanish privateer, and carried into Cadiz, where both ship and cargo have been condemned. It was supposed that the numerous insults previously offered by Spanish Cruisers to the American flag, were unauthorised by the government, and would be disclaimed by it; but the recent adjudication of the Spanish admiralty court has torn from the United States that pleasing delusion and will doubtless be followed by measures of more active hostility. It is now said that the troops taken out by Gravina were to re-inforce the Floridas, that the Cadiz squadron is designed to support the negotiation, which it was proposed to renew at Washington, respecting Louisiana, and the other objects in dispute between the two governments.

We understand that government entertain no doubt with respect to the recall of M. Novoziltzow, and believe that he has actually set out on his return to Petersburg.

Some letters by the last Lisbon mail, impute the sudden order for the sailing of the Walsington Packet, to the receipt of overland dispatches from Spain, which, although their contents were kept secret, were without hesitation, presumed to bring the ultimatum of the French and Spanish courts, and to leave the prince regent no choice, between shutting the ports of Portugal against the English flag and commerce, and an immediate invasion by the combined powers. We are rather inclined to impute the sudden sailing of the Walsington to the receipt of dispatches announcing the sailing of the Carthage fleet on the 25th ult.

A letter from Lisbon mentions on the authority of accounts brought by the Decade, the death of the French commander in chief, Admiral Villeneuve.

Private letters from Paris state, that Bonaparte returned from Italy sooner than was expected, on account of some pretended plots discovered by Fouché, and some real discontent among the troops on the coast, whose pay was, until the first of July, three months behind. Though several examples of severity have been shewn, the mutinous disposition continued, and instead of abating increased. This was particularly the case with the troops encamped near Brest, under the command of Angereau. Last month the Irish Guides attached to that army presented a petition for their pay to the general, & complained bitterly of their sufferings. The six persons deputed to present the petition were immediately shot and the whole corps ordered to be re-organised. Some of the officers were broken, and others condemned to transportation to Cayenne. They were all succeeded by Frenchmen, with whom the Irish guides are very much dissatisfied. Two regiments of dragoons and four battalions of infantry, were, on account of their mutinous disposition sent by Angereau to the interior, from whence the minister Berthier ordered them to Italy. It is reported at Paris, that when, on the 21st of June, Angereau ordered his army to embark on board the fleet under Gantheaume, the troops, to a man, refused to obey, until the arrears due to them were acquitted. (Sun.)

August 3.

The arrival of the Malta, of 80 guns, at Plymouth, on Saturday, with dispatches from sir Robert Calder, has put an end to the sanguine hopes so generally entertained that our squadron would have succeeded in bringing the combined fleet once more into action. It now appears that from the evening of the 25th ult. none of the enemy's vessels were to be seen. We have been favored with a letter from an officer on board the Malta, which the following is an extract:

"Malta, at Plymouth, Aug. 3.

"I am safe and well, after a smart brush with the enemy, the particulars of which you must have before this. To our surprise and mortification, after losing a glorious opportunity of completely destroying the combined squadron, and adding additional honor to the British flag, we have let them completely escape from us, and our ship is arrived at Plymouth. From the hour of the battle on the 22d, till the 25th, we had the power in our hands of attacking them again with every prospect of success. Indeed, so confident were we of it, that every man in the Malta, I will swear, panted for the order for the fresh attack. It is not for me to attach blame to a superior officer, much less a commander in chief on this occasion. He may have reasons, private reasons, and indeed orders of such a peculiar nature that govern his conduct, and tie up his hands. But where did a better opportunity offer itself, with such a glorious prospect of victory? and that, has been most clearly lost. Few of our ships, except the Windsor Castle, have been injured, and not a single man undaunted in the fleet, with an enemy evidently in terror, and flying before us.

"After the battle on the 22d, we continued idle, in fact, doing nothing, till the enemy was completely out of sight. It was the object of our admiral most clearly to keep them from getting into Corunna or Ferrol; and we presume he was daily, even hourly expecting the fleet of lord Nelson. We therefore stretched away for Ferrol, where we arrived on the 29th, from which place we were dispatched for England on the 31st, and arrived here to-day. The combined fleets, we are perfectly satisfied, were bound for Cadiz."

August 8.

An order, it is said, was sent to all the out posts some time ago, instructing our cruisers to detain all American vessels which have on board property not the property of the U. States. This order has been already acted upon, and several ships have been stopped. The American consul, it is reported, applied to government yesterday for an explanation; but we are not acquainted with the answer he received.

It has been ascertained that the American ships have for a length of time been in the practice of going to the Isle of France and the French ports in the W. Indies, to bring away produce, which they finally carried into French or Dutch ports. Their usual custom was to touch at an American port, in order to give the cargoes the appearance of being American property; but it is very well known that such cargoes were never landed. It is in consequence of these proceedings that the orders above mentioned had been issued.

HAMBURG, July 19.

Baron Novoziltzoff cannot have left Berlin on his return to St. Petersburg, till the 17 inst. and he must have held some more conference before that time. Copies of the note transmitted by baron Hardenburg, have been communicated by the latter to all the foreign ministers residing at Berlin, to be transmitted to their courts, which they all did, with the exception of the French envoy, M. Lapostolle, who refused to receive the said copy. The king of Prussia, it is asserted, has thereupon transmitted by his ministry, a note to the said envoy, containing the strongest assurances of amity towards the French government, and the most flattering expression to the envoy.

PHILADELPHIA, September 17.

By the ships Sally, arrived at Boston in 28 days from Liverpool, and London Packet, at this port from London.

Constantinople, June 16.

After the Captain Pacha had taken on board a considerable number of troops, he sailed yesterday, with a fair wind for Egypt.

The emperor of Russia has long made application to the Porte for the free navigation of the Phasis, in Mengrelia for his subjects, and his Minister, Count Italsky, has had frequent conferences with the Reis Effendi on the subject. A treaty has at length been concluded between the two courts, by which the Porte grants to the court of Russia not only the free navigation demanded, but also two forts on the Phasis, viz. the Castle Cotalis, and the village of Pole, in which Russian garrisons will be placed to defend the navigation. The Porte has transmitted advice of the conclusion of this treaty to the Bashaw of Enzerum, with orders to him to give every assistance to the Russians in the Phasis, and to protect them in case of need.

The English consul general at Constantinople, has received fresh advices from the East Indies, which not only confirm the accounts received by the last, of the defeat and entire ruin of the army of Holkar, but also bring intelligence of farther progress made by the English, and the complete subjection of the petty princes of the Mahrattas.

St. Petersburg, July 3.

For some days nothing has been talked of here, but an approaching war. A courier has been sent off to M. Novoziltzoff, with orders to discontinue his journey. It is said that a considerable body of troops are assembling on the frontiers of Prussia and Galicia. Notwithstanding all this, however, we see no military preparations, nor any inclination to confirm these reports of war.

Nuremberg, July 8.

The French general Hedouville, late envoy at St. Petersburg, is gone to Venice where a French commissary is also at present.

IMPORTANT STATE PAPER.

BERLIN, July 13.

The negotiation from which all Europe to this moment expected peace and the restoration of tranquillity has miscarried.

Baron Novoziltzoff has returned the passports which he had received from Milan through the mediation of our court, for his mission to France, with the following note:

NOTE

From his excellency baron Novoziltzoff, to his excellency baron Hardenburg, minister of state.

"When his majesty the emperor of all the Russias in compliance with the wishes of his Britannic majesty, had resolved to send the undersigned to Bonaparte, to meet the pacific overtures which he had made to the court of London, his Russian majesty was guided by two sentiments and motives of equal force with which you are acquainted, namely his desire, on the one hand, to support a sovereign who was ready to make exertions and sacrifices for the general tranquillity, and on the other hand to procure advantages to all the states of Europe, from a pacific disposition, which from the former in which it was announced must be considered as very sincere.

"The existing disagreement between Russia and France could have placed insurmountable obstacles in the way of a negotiation of peace by a Russian minister; but his imperial majesty of Russia did not hesitate, for a moment, to pass over all personal displeasure, and all usual formalities.

"His imperial majesty of Russia availed himself of the mediation of his Prussian majesty, when he requested the passports for his plenipotentiary. He declared that he should only receive them on that particular condition, namely that his plenipotentiary should enter directly upon a negotiation with the chief of the French government, without acknowledging the new title which he had assumed; and that Bonaparte should give explicit assurances that he was still animated by the same wish for a general peace which he had appeared to shew in his letter to his Britannic majesty.

"This preliminary assurance was the more necessary, since Bonaparte had assumed the title of king of Italy immediately upon receipt of the answer given by his Britannic majesty to his letter of the 1st of January; a title which itself put a new obstacle in the way of the desired restoration of peace.

"After his Prussian majesty had transmitted the positive answer from the cabinet of the Thuilleries, that it persevered in the intention sincerely to lend its hand to a pacific negotiation, his imperial majesty of Russia accepted the passports the more readily, because the French government shewed so strong an inclination to transmit them.

"By a fresh transgression of the most solemn treaties, the union of the Ligurian republic with France has been effected. The event of itself, the circumstances which have accompanied it, the formalities which have been employed to hasten the execution thereof, the moment which has been chosen to carry the same into execution, have, alas! formed an aggregate which must terminate the sacrifices which his Imperial majesty of Russia would have made at the pressing request of Great Britain, and in hope of restoring the necessary tranquillity of Europe by the means of negotiation.

"Without doubt his imperial majesty of Russia would not have insisted so strenuously on the conditions fixed by him, if the French government had fulfilled the hope that it would respect the first tie which holds society together, and which upholds the confidence of engagements between civilized nations; but it cannot possibly be believed, that Bonaparte, when he granted the passports, which were accompanied with the most pacific declarations, seriously intended to fulfil them; because, during the time which would necessarily elapse between the granting of passports and the arrival of the undersigned at Paris, he took measures, which, far from facilitating the restoration of peace, were of such a nature that they annihilated the very grounds of peace.

"The undersigned, in recalling to the recollection of his excellency baron Hardenburg facts with which the cabinet of his Prussian majesty is very minutely acquainted, must at the same time inform him, that he has just now received from his Russian majesty an order dated the 9th (21st) June to return the annexed passports immediately, and to request your excellency to transmit the same to the French government, with this present declaration, since no use whatever can be made of them in the present state of affairs.

"The undersigned avails himself of this opportunity to renew to his excellency the assurance of his respect.

(Signed)

N. VON NOVOZILTZOFF.

Berlin, 28th June, O. S. July 10, 1805.

The above note was immediately transmitted by all the ministers, except M. Laforest, the French envoy, residing here, to their respective courts, by messengers and expresses.

This day or to-morrow baron Novoziltzoff will leave Berlin, on his return to St. Petersburg.

[In our next we shall publish a reply to the foregoing note, considered in Europe as the expose of Bonaparte on the recall of M. Novoziltzoff.

NORFOLK, September 9.

This morning a letter was put into our hands from a very respectable gentleman of this borough, stating circumstances which we are very sorry to learn, but coming from such a respectable source, we cannot for a moment doubt their veracity, and our duty dictates an exposure of such intolerable conduct.

The New-York packet Weymouth, on her passage from this to New-York, having on board several ladies and gentlemen of this place, was met by the British sloop of war Hawke and Driver, who fired several shot at the packet, after she had hove to, and within 100 yards distance. The lieutenant, who came on board, behaved in the most brutal manner, reviling the Americans in the grossest terms, and wishing that his nation was at war with us. They were in the act of taking two slaves from on board, when observing their age, the officer declared, if they were not so old he would have taken them.

Those outrages, committed in sight of our ports, and by persons whose stations would lead to a supposition that they were gentlemen, cannot be censured in terms stronger than they merit.

More Spoliation.—We are sorry to announce the capture of the brig Catharine, captain Seward, from Antigua, of and for this port, laden with a valuable cargo of ruin, for account of citizens of the United States and merchants of this place and Portsmouth. The Catharine was taken by a French privateer, and ordered for Porto-Rico. There has not been a capture yet made which has excited more alarm and more indignation. There was not the least colorable pretext for this capture; the owners of the vessel and of all the cargo are well known to us, and they are all citizens of the United States. The only reason for the capture was the value! This information comes by a letter from Portland—received by last mail. The duties on this cargo would have been upwards of 6500 dollars! so goes the revenue.

September 14.

The following interesting Communication from the British admiral, commanding the blockading squadron off Cadiz, to the American captains, was handed us by capt. Hatton, from St. Lucar.

Dreadnought, off Cadiz, July 23, 1805.

GENTLEMEN,

"I VERY much lament the inconvenience or loss which the subjects of neutral states may suffer by the suppression of the Spanish trade in the ports of Cadiz and San Lucar by his majesty's order for its prohibition having been publicly notified, and sufficient time given for its general promulgation throughout Europe, before it was acted upon by this squadron before Cadiz. I cannot, notwithstanding the most sincere disposition I have at all times felt to give every security and facility to the lawful trade of neutrals, allow the ships which have received cargoes on board since my arrival upon this coast, to proceed on their voyage without them; if there were any impediments to the regular notification of the measure, by respective ministers, I am sensible of the appearance of the squadron, and their having in lieu of other ports all neutral ships, and the purpose of the measure, which, far from facilitating the restoration of peace, were of such a nature that they annihilated the very grounds of peace.

Those ships (many of which) that had received cargoes, or a principal part of it, on board here, I have allowed to continue their voyage, for it is the trade of the world, and I would intercept none involved in it, and their degree of suffer, it is an accident, but cannot prevent.

The American ships in port not loaded, may be seized, but the American ships loaded on the 10th inst. in blockade will be seized, which comes out, though she may be a schooner, I found it too late, you may depend I shall take care of it with respect to the measures that I hope will procure of such conduct in future those who in their lawful pursuits are kind offices, rather than to kind offices, and unjustifiable threats. I have the honor to be, Gentlemen, Your most obedient humble servant, CUTBERT COLLIER.

...The recent intelligence from the M. di-
...terranean of the ransom of our fellow-cit...izens from Tripoline captivity and the peace
...concluded by the Bashaw of that regency,
...makes every article of intelligence from that
...quarter of some importance.—The follow...ing particulars are gathered from a letter
...from Dr. Cowdry, one of those captives, to ...his father residing in Vermont, dated, Tri-
...poli, November the 7th, 1804:
...He observes that proposals of peace had
...been agitated, without effect: the Bashaw
...demanding for peace and the ransom of
...the prisoners, one million of dollars, where-
...as commodore Preble in behalf of the go...vernment offered 120000. The Bashaw
...continues the Dr. has been on the throne
...about 11 years. On the death of his father,
...the former Bashaw, he usurped the throne
...by killing one of his elder brothers, and
...driving the other out of his dominions in-
...to Egypt. He is very cruel to his subjects
...when he finds them guilty of crimes: For ...murder, treason, &c. he beheads them; for
...theft, or house breaking, he takes off the ...left hand and right foot, at the joint, and
...dips the stumps into boiling tar: For less
...crimes he gives them the bastinado, as the ...Turks call it.—This is done by tying
...up the feet with a rope, and beating upon
...the breech, and soles of the feet, with a ...large stick. They often perish under the ...operation. Yet this cruel prince is re...markably fond of children and kind to the ...poor. He is about 35 years of age, has 2
...wives, one white and one black; by the ...former he has five, by the latter four chil...dren. A plurality of wives is allowed in ...this country. He is a white-man of mid-
...dling size, rather portly and tolerably
...handsome. He has a bomb-proof room,
...which he occupied during the rattling of
...shells and shot, and the sounding of Co...lumbian thunder.
...Present scene at New York!
...Perhaps, says the New York Daily Ad...vertiser, at no former visitation of the ...alarming epidemic, was the spread of the ...fever more rapid, or the flight of the ...citizens more sudden. Scarcely had the ...dread disease made its approach, when it
...extended itself widely around the place of ...its first appearance, and soon penetrated in-
...to the interior of the city. Nor was the
...the terror of the inhabitants less instant.—
...Taught by painful experience the fatal na...ture of the epidemic, those most immedi...ately exposed to its dangers, fled almost in...stantaneously, from the seat of disease.—
...Anxious to prosecute their usual pursuits,
...many of the citizens engaged houses and
...stores in the vicinity of the town, and par...ticularly at Greenwich, so that the rents
...soon became enormous, indeed in some ...instances incredible. Soon the streets and ...roads were covered with the goods and
...furniture of the fleeing inhabitants, and
...both in and out of town all was solicitude
...and bustle. Others again who chose a more ...distant retreat hurried away by water in ...every direction, so that in a day or two,
...thousands had disappeared, and the most
...populous part of the city was left uninha-
...bited.
...And yet though safety was so general...ly sought in flight, it was our lot not
...unfrequently to see the sable and solitary
...hearse, "slow moving to the mansion of the ...dead," while perhaps a single mourner or ...two followed at an awful distance. With
...what anxiety have we seen the populace
...crowd around the health-office to ascertain
...who more of their fellow citizens had been
...seized by the dread distemper, and who
...more were numbered with the dead. But
...enough on the melancholy theme at present
...—It will recur but too frequently—

...Messrs. RUSSEL & CUTLER,
...I send you a copy of a sentence of condem-
...nation, passed on the 23d of July by Judge
...Scott, on the brig Enock and cargo of this ...town.—They were condemned on the ...ground of her cargo being brought from ...an enemy's colony, and re-shipped in the

...rope.—Much valuable property having
...lately been condemned upon the same plea,
...it is important that the public should be

...COURT OF ADMIRALTY, DOCTORS COM.
...Tuesday July the 23, 1805.
...Before the Right Hon. Sir William Scott,
...sentence in the case of ENOCH DOANE,
...Master:—
...COURT.—The rule of law on voyages
...of this kind, is now after much deliberation
...laid down by an authority [The Decree of ...the lords in the case of the Essex-Orne]
...which will bind me, that the circumstances
...of landing the goods, or securing the duties
...do not furnish complete evidence of the ...termination of the voyage. It is necessary
...and must be proved that the original inten...tion was that the ship go to the country
...to which she belonged.—If it does ap...pear that the original intention was, that ...the ship should go to the neutral coun...try merely for the purpose of touching
...there, & immediately pursuing her voyage,
...that will not protect the vessel; it must be
...treated upon the footing of one continued
...voyage, from the colony of the enemy the ...mother country. It is only necessary to ...consider, whether the circumstances of
...this case are such which lead to the un-
...avoidable conclusion, that it was the inten...tion of the party to pursue the voyage from
...Martinique to the port of Antwerp. I am
...of opinion that there is conclusive proof
...of that. From what has been stated it ap...pears that the ship came to Boston, that ...part of her goods were landed, her bottom
...cleared; that she immediately pursued her
...voyage to Antwerp, and that this was un...der a charter party before the ship quitted
...Boston. It has been said Dr. Lawrence,
...that that might not be for the same cargo,
...but when I find the fact to be, that the same
...cargo was absolutely put on board, I think
...there is enough to convince me, that it was ...originally intended to carry the cargo on to ...Europe. I am therefore under the neces...sity of respecting that authority, and pursu...ing the same course of decision, but the ...other property* that was put on board at
...Boston must be considered with a more fa...vorable view, and I shall restore that part
...accordingly to the schedule.

LAND TO RENT.

The subscriber offers to RENT, for one or more years,

A VERY valuable FARM, containing about 800 acres; at present occupied by Mr. Daniel Dye. It lies on Bull Run, in the county of Prince William, near to Centerville about 20 miles to Dumfries, 25 to Alexandria and about the same distance to Washington City and George Town. The land is of the first quality, if not superior to any, on that run well adapted to the growth of every kind of grain, it is divided into three fields of about 100 acres each—those fields, when in pasture, produce white clover in the greatest abundance, the growth luxuriant and equal to any pastures below the Blue-Ridge—a large quantity of meadow ground of the best quality binding on the run, which might be prepared with very little labor and a sufficient quantity of wood-land, for keeping in repair the necessary fencing, the buildings, except a barn, are indifferent; yet the central situation of this farm (in a healthy part of the country) to those capital towns, the fertility of its soil, the great advantages that may be derived from such a farm, render it an object worth the attention of any industrious farmer.

The premises will be shown by Spencer Ball Esquire, near thereto, or the tenants thereon, and the terms made known by applying to

TO BE RENTED,

For one or more years, and possession given the first of January next, with the privilege of seeding wheat this fall;

Between 8 and 900 acres of valuable LAND, lying on Cub and Bull Runs, in Fairfax county, about 23 miles from Alexandria and the City of Washington, and well adapted to the growth of corn, wheat and tobacco. There is a comfortable dwelling-house, kitchen, stable, two large barns, corn-house, &c. with tolerable good apple and peach-orchards—a great proportion of the above land is low grounds, which at a small expense might be made prime meadow land. Mr. Spencer Ball or Josiah Buckley, who live adjoining the land, will show it, and the terms made known by the subscribers.

John G. Chinn.

Richmond county, Sept. 4.

FOR SALE,

My Tract of Land, lying in the county of Loudoun, and bounding on the Sugar Land Run: containing two thousand and seven hundred and sixty four acres. I will accommodate purchasers in parcels less than the whole. I will not enter into any description of the land, supposing that persons desirous of purchasing, will inform themselves on the spot, by taking a view of the premises. Possession can be given on new year's day, in the year 1806, to any one who makes a bargain before the 15th September, after which time tenants will be fixed and the possession though at the same time as in the other case, will be encumbered with them. For terms application may be made to Thomas L. Lee, of the county, General John Minor, Frederickburg and the subscribers living in the county of King George.
